GOLDEN, COLORADO - Echoserve, Inc., announces the hiring of James Whalen as its Vice President of Service. Mr. Whalen joins Echoserve's senior staff and will provide leadership for the company's rapidly expanding clinical service team. Over a 20+ year career, Mr. Whalen has held several senior level service management positions, most recently as the Regional Service Manager for Philips Medical Systems. He is based in Echoserve's headquarters in Golden, Colorado.

"Our continuing ability to attract talented employees from the major players in the industry speaks well of Echoserve's positioning in the marketplace," said Christopher Cone, Chief Executive Officer of Echoserve. "I'm extremely excited to have Jim on our senior management team and I look forward to working with him in the development of our service business."

"Having managed major service operations for most of my career, I'm pleased to be in a situation where I can build a world-class organization from the ground up. Echoserve's broad technical capabilities and its relationships with major customers in the industry provide a tremendous platform for the development of a successful multi-vendor field service business," added Mr. Whalen.
